FIRST TO LOVE"

CIPRIANI LEGACY

The story of Cipriani began in 1931, when Giuseppe Cipriani Sr. opened Harry's Bar on the first floor of an abandoned rope warehouse off of Piazza San Marco in Venice. Warm and inviting, the small room was soon crowded with artists, aristocrats, and writers who came for the martinis and stayed for the conversation. As it attracted everyone from Ernest Hemingway to Katharine Hepburn, Harry's Bar became famous for its charming ambiance and discreet, anticipatory service.

Giuseppe Cipriani Sr. was attuned to the tastes and whims of his patrons and always found new ways to delight them. He is credited with inventing the Bellini cocktail—a delicious marriage of white peaches and prosecco—as well as the famous beef carpaccio. This unmatched hospitality paired with style, authenticity, and the love of good food are at the heart of the Cipriani brand.
